Product Description

When it comes to exercise, few activities are more recognizable than biking. Unlike typical bike machines, the Single Station Hand Bike with Seat flips the script, and allows users to use their hands and arms to power the pedals. The relatively low height of the Single Station Hand Bike with Seat allows users of all sizes to get a good upper body workout in, and to engage in healthy physical activity. The pedals it's equipped with are designed to be gripped by hands as opposed to pedaled by feet, making the Single Station Hand Bike an easy, effective exercise option. Like most outdoor fitness equipment, the Single Station Hand Bike with Seat was designed for outdoor use, and its sturdy inground mount helps it stay anchored even in the event of inclement weather.
